THE EISENHOWER CHAPEL
 IN THE LOWRY TOWN CENTER

THE SOILED DOVE

*T*he Eisenhower Chapel built in 1941 opened just days before Pearl Harbor. Originally called Chapel #1, it was used for Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish services. After the Eisenhowers attended services here during Ike's summers away from Washington, the Chapel was renamed the Eisenhower Chapel.

In 2002, a community reuse analysis was done to determine the future use of the building. It was then that it was coined the "Town Hall at Eisenhower Chapel." The Lowry Foundation welcomes a variety of uses for the building including, performances, weddings, funerals, retirement ceremonies, corporate retreats, historic tours, town meetings, art exhibits and community celebrations.

Located on the east side of the Town Center in Lowry. The simple yet elegant Chapel seats 200. The lovely, historic non-denominational Chapel has been fully refurbished and is available for rental. Please note there is a two-hour minimum for weddings at $200 an hour.

*T*he Soiled Dove Underground, nestled beneath the Tavern Lowry, offers an intimate and elegant experience for your wedding reception. When national and local talents are not performing, Denver's award-winning concert venue transforms into a dazzling event space. Located steps away from Eisenhower Chapel, the Dove is conveniently located and has ample free parking.

The room is configured with three levels of tiered seating arranged in a semicircle facing the stage and generous dance floor. Banquet seating capacity is 200 people for a plated meal, and 175 people for a buffet. For a cocktail reception the capacity is 350 people.

Extensive audio and video options include state-of-the-art sound and dynamic lighting. Small screens throughout the venue are available to display a picture with message, and two large screens are located on either side of the stage to share memories with a photo slide show.

A professional Event Coordinator is available to provide all your event service needs, such as creating a menu with the in-house chef and coordinating specialty cakes, florist services, table displays and a live band or DJ with our in-house talent buyer.
